The Kind Little Fox

Out in the woods where the tall trees grow,
Lived a bright orange fox with a happy glow.
He had big green eyes and a tail tipped white,
And he loved the warm sun and the soft daylight.

The Kind Little Fox

One sunny morning, he looked out to see,
Five little children as sweet as can be.
Two happy girls and three little boys,
Playing together with laughter and noise.

The Kind Little Fox

The fox waved his paw and he said with a smile,
"Hello, little friends! Come and sit for a while!
Animals need us to protect them each day,
So listen closely to what I will say."

The Kind Little Fox

He pointed right down to a patch in the weed,
Where a tiny lost bird was in very big need.
"Look," whispered Fox, "He is hungry and small,
We must help him stand up so he doesn't fall."

The Kind Little Fox

The two little girls brought a leaf full of seeds,
The three little boys brought the water he needs.
Together they helped him, so gentle and kind,
The sweetest young helpers that you'll ever find.

The Kind Little Fox

"Now look," said the fox, "as I sit on the land,
You can stroke my soft fur with your very small hand.
But we must be gentle, not rough and not quick,
We never pull tails, and we don't throw a stick."

The Kind Little Fox

A sweet little girl patted Fox on his head,
"We will always be gentle and kind," she then said.
The three little boys and the other girl smiled,
As they sat with the fox in the beautiful wild.

The Kind Little Fox

From the bugs in the dirt to the birds in the blue,
All animals have feelings, just like me and you.
When we use gentle hands and we share a warm space,
We make the whole world a much happier place!

The Kind Little Fox

The children all cheered and they gave a big shout,
"We know what true kindness is all now about!"
They hugged the sweet fox in a circle so tight,
And the little green woods felt so happy and bright.
